ALTERNATE FORUM FOR RESEARCH IN MINDANAO (AFRIM), INC.

Address: Room 1H Anda Corporate Center, Davao City
Contact Number: (082) 226-3932
Fax: (082) 226-4592
E-mail Address: info@afrim.org.ph
Website: www.afrim.org.ph
Contact Person: Mary Luz M. Feranil - Executive Director

AFRIM traces its origins to the dark night of the nation's history, marked by poverty and repression. In an era where peace, justice, and equality were mere catchwords of a generation that has seen better days. At a time when even the news media were intimidated to the point of losing their soul.

Martial law had spawned abductions, salvaging, torture, hamletting, transnational incursions into farmlands, and other unspeakable agonies. People's resistance then was strong and ever expanding. Some turned to the printed page. Others utilized protest art. Many took to the streets. Thousands went underground.

This experience eventually led to the discussions on creating an organization that will document the incidents of state oppression and the people's resistance. In June 1978, a group of people from media, research, and justice and peace work convened to discuss the research environment in Mindanao.

The Alternate Forum for Research in Mindanao (AFRIM), Inc. emerged as a response to the pressing need for timely and relevant information at a time when media was under the control of Marcos' repressive regime. Mindanao-based and action-oriented, AFRIM was geared toward disseminating the findings of research through popular forms. The ultimate goal was people's empowerment.

It took up issues that had become a rallying cause for the then heightening anti-dictatorship struggle—from militarization in the countryside, the coconut levy and agribusiness corporations, to development projects and multinational incursions—with a clear bias for basic sectors with whom it has been working for the past years: peasant and labor.

Twenty-six years after its inception, AFRIM has established itself as a reliable social research, advocacy, community development, and communications institution, providing information and analyses so necessary towards forging a sound development framework for Mindanao. Without abandoning its acknowledged bias for the marginalized sectors, AFRIM likewise engages in mainstream policy debate, influencing media and policymakers in and out of government towards the promotion of the genuine development for Mindanao.

E-mail Address: tahphil@mozcom.com/ amaya@mozcom.com

ALFI has been a long time partner of terre des hommes in Davao City. Initially, ALFI provided direct services like counseling, scholarships, and income-generating projects to widows and orphans of activist-people who were killed by the State military during the dark years of Martial Law.

Now, ALFI has focused its attention to peace-building efforts, especially in depressed and conflict-ridden communities where many of the organized women and young people belonging to their network continue to live. ALFI sees peace building as inextricably linked to poverty-alleviation and the promotion of the rights of poor women and children/youth.

Through this new project, ALFI hopes to build on its efforts in the past three years, namely, the animation of 10 youth and 14 women community-based organizations in rural grassroots communities in Mindanao as well as its short project on child soldiers last year.

GABRIELA Network is a Philippine-U.S. women's solidarity mass organization, which provides means by which Filipinas in the U.S. can empower themselves and effect change through organizing, educating, fundraising, networking, and advocacy. At the request of the GABRIELA network, CCR staff attorneys participated in a women's human rights delegation to the Philippines and prepared Seeking Answers: Probing Political Persecution, Repression & Human Rights Violations in the Philippines, a report documenting the rise in human rights violations since President Gloria Macapagal Arroyo of the Philippines came into power in 2001. In January 2002, President Bush and President Arroyo jointly declared the Philippines the "second front" in the "war on terror." Since this declaration, U.S. military aid to the Philippines increased 2000 percent and U.S. soldiers advised the Philippine military.

GABRIELA Philippines is a movement of Filipino women that deals distinctly with the problems of women as women, working to free women from all forms of economic and political oppression and discrimination, sexual violence and abuse, neglect and denial of their health and reproductive rights. It is a movement integral to the national liberation struggle for sovereignty, a democratic and representative government and equality between women and men in all aspects of life.

Tambayan is a Cebuano term for hangout or a place for rendezvous. The word Tambayan is aptly used in street children lingo -- commonly referred to a place somewhere in streets where they converge for social interaction.

- where street girls can be themselves,
- where their need for peer-group bonding is accepted,
- where they can talk with supportive adults regarding issues that they confront as girls and adolescents,
- and a space where they can develop self-confidence and heal traumas of abuse,
- where they can be aware of their risk taking behaviour and become empowered to take control over their lives, rebuild it and live in dignity and free from abuse and exploitation.
